ANNISTON PRESS LAUDS MEMBERS OF D. C. CAVALRY

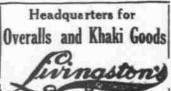

ANNISTON, Ala., Sept. 17.-The press and the people of Anniston have given a whole-hearted welcome to the First District of Columbia Cavalry Squadron, composed of Troops A, B, C. and D.

The District of Columbia cavalry is one of the most interesting military units in Camp McClellan," says the Anniston Evening Star. "The personnel is made of men who were well known in civil life for qualifications that made them leaders in their chosen pursuits. working for Uncle Sam at $30 a month, men who were in the habit of spending that much a day in civil life for 'incidentals.'

"Probably no other organization in the camp contains more professional the camp contains more processions, men that the District cavairy, whose personnel includes journalists, doc-tors, lawyers, and many of the lead-ing business men of Washington. "These men have made genuine sac-rifices to join the army, and, although they gave up many comforts and luxuries, they are living the hard life of the camp without complaint, work-ing hard to perfect themselvas in whatever branch of military service their superiors may assign them and

The cablegram was sent following a conference with Senator Ransdell of Louisiana and a delegation of Southern Senators and Congressmen. Senator Ransdell told Secretary Mc-Adoo the withdrawal of the $110,000, 000 of British capital that for many years has been invested in mortgage in the South would work severe hard

The new British policy was adopted early in the year, before the United States entered the war. Secretary McAdoo is confident the policy will be altered now that Britain and America are fighting shoulder to shoulder for the same principles.
